Friday:

Hanky:—

Do not knowing I did not get my letter at the usual time to-day, but hope it comes in the next mail. Suppose it's delay is due to Uncle Morris' case.

The circus gave a performance on the Bellevue grounds to-day. It sure was dandy, and I as well as the kids enjoyed it. You'll probably see parts of it in the movies.

Went home last night and did a little sewing. Am very tired to-day. If Mr. Smallwood lets me off early enough, I shall do some shopping before I run up to your mother's house. There are so many things that I want to get. Honey, before I forget, will you be sure to get an iron, so that when I come I shall be able to press my clothes, as I expect to receive them in a fierce creased condition. I will not be able to wear a thing until it is pressed, so don't forget.

Nothing more that I can think of, so shall close with all my love, hugs & kisses,

Your loving wife
Frances.
